FGD Content analysis

The FGD activity in the Community Radio Kolelemai Bucoli was run very good, even though all the participants that participated in the program are married and not really active in the program, however after a while they become more active and the team decided to play the first episode on the Women's Right on Land. Most of the participants were men and they knew that men and women have the same right on land.

Challenges

Participants were really active in listening to the Her Story Program when it was played, although some of them didn't follow the program yet most of them were active because they were interested on this program.

Success Story

After listening to the program, one participant promised to share his land to his son and daughter.

Participants' Suggestion

It is suggested to run this program in the rural area because many people in rural area don't have it. They also mentioned that they have no radio monitor to access to. They requested to SFCG to distribute it to the community members so that they can listen to the radio programs.

Next step

- Participants requested to produce more programs on Justice.
